KALLEDEVARAPURA

The Kalledevarapura Estate (that means “abode of Lord Shiva”) dates back to the late 18th century, the Estate conserve the 300-year-old Shiva temple from its name is derived. Nestled at the foothills of Bababudangiri Hills, Chikmagalur – the birthplace of coffee in India, provides an ideal location to grow the coffee in a sustainable way.

The coffee is grown under a 3 tier shade pattern consisting of old jungle trees, Fig trees, Jackfruit trees and Silver Oaks. This age-old practice not only preserves the ecological balance of the region but also lends a distinctive taste to the coffee.
